Michael Gansl Named President of Headcount Management

New York, New York, February 15, 2007 – Headcount Management, a leading Temporary Workforce Employer (TWE) for organizations using temporary and contract personnel, has named Michael Gansl as its President. Mr. Gansl will oversee the firm’s expansion into additional markets.

“For over 20 years, Michael has been creating successful business strategies for both early stage and mature companies,” says Mark Arrow, Headcount CEO. “Michael’s managerial, financial and sales and marketing expertise is a welcome addition to Headcount and will surely move the company closer to the leadership position, we all know it can achieve.”

Prior to joining Headcount, Mr. Gansl served as a Business Development Officer for The Bank of New York/JP Morgan Chase, where he was responsible for funding small businesses and assisting them in all aspects of their growth initiative plans. His extensive experience includes developing sales, marketing and operations processes for both early stage and mature companies. Prior to this, Mr. Gansl served as President and CEO of Netlan Interactive. For fifteen years, Mr. Gansl was responsible for leading the company to the forefront of the network systems integration market and increased annual sales to $17.5 million dollars.
